Herodotus a huckster.
Such as believe the tales of the Egyptians credible are free to accept them for history. For my own part, I propose to myself throughout my whole work faithfully to record the traditions of the several nations. The Egyptians maintain that Ceres and Bacchus preside in the realms below. They were also the first to broach the opinion that the soul of man is immortal, and that when the body dies it enters into the form of an animal which is born at the moment, thence passing on from one animal into another until it has circled through the forms of all the creatures which tenant the earth, the water and the air; after which it enters again a human frame, and is born anew. The whole period of the transmigration is (they say) three thousand years. There are Greek writers—some of an earlier, some of a later date—who have borrowed this doctrine from the Egyptians and put it forward as their own. I abstain from doing so.—Herodotus.

HIS CASE WAS HOPELESS

Could Hardly Eat. Gradually Grew Worse. Relieved by Peruna.

Mr. A. M. Ikard, Box 31, West Burlington, Ia., writes: "I had catarrh of the stomach and small intestines for a number of years. I went to a number of doctors and got no relief, and finally one of my doctors sent me to Chicago, and I met the same fate. They said they could do nothing for me; said I had cancer of the stomach and there was no cure. I almost thought the same, for my breath was offensive and I could not eat anything without great misery, and I gradually grew worse. Finally I concluded to try Peruna, and I found relief and a cure for that dreadful disease, catarrh. I took five bottles of Peruna and two of Manalin, and now I feel like a new man. There is nothing better than Peruna, and I keep a bottle of it in my house all the time."

Persons who object to liquid medicine can now obtain Peruna Tablets. (Advertisement.)

Morgan's Grandson Likes Rowing and Tennis; Not Rounding

JUNIOUS SPENCER MORGAN

Cambridge, Mass., May 17.—Junius Spencer Morgan, grandson of the late J. Pierpont Morgan, is one of the most interesting students at Harvard university. Although he is not called snobbish or "stuckup," his disinclination to "mix" with the fellow students has earned him the nickname of "Silent" Morgan. His favorite pastimes are tennis and rowing. He is a member of the freshmen eight and puts in a great deal more time in training to hold his seat in the boat than in "grinding" over his class studies. He does not like to be reminded of the fact that he will some day be head of the great banking firm of Morgan & Co.

WOMAN GETS $300 WHILE CHARITY SPENDS $5000 MAKING INQUIRY
Chicago, Ill., May 17.—Records intended to show that one woman dependent upon charity received less than $300 during 18 months, while approximately $5000 was spent in investigating her condition, were produced before the legislative committee investigating charitable institutions.

The beneficiary, Mrs. Maxine Utlich, resides next door to the Mary Crane nursery, a branch of the United Charities, and two of her children were hospitalized late last year. "This is one of the apparent abuses we are trying to correct," said Rev. F. E. J. Lloyd, "it is a shame that so much money was spent in looking up Mrs. Utlich, when so little was given really to help out."

WOUNDED MAN ARRESTED.
Saturday at noon, Cruz Delgado, a discharged patient from the county hospital as cured, was arrested on a complaint charging him with attempted burglary of a box car and edged in the county jail. The wounded man was sent to the hospital Saturday when he left the hospital he was arrested. The complaint against Delgado was filed in the court of justice of the peace E. R. McClintock.

Late Friday afternoon when Louis Camp, who attends the San Jacinto school, was on his way home, he collided with automobile No. 1295 driven by L. E. Chamberlain. His trial will come up in the corporation court Saturday afternoon.

REAL HOMES FOR DEMING SECTION

Homeplot Company Solves the Problem of Settling Land.

The Home Plot company, of Deming, N. M., is now at work putting 60 20-acre tracts of land into condition for the market and the plan is in advance of anything undertaken in this section of the country.

The plans of the company call for putting the farms into first-class condition before they are sold. Generally as Mr. Laughren says, a man invests all his money in a farm and has nothing left for improvements. The Home Plot company is improving the place and will sell it on from 25 to 50 percent down and the rest in one, two, three, four and five years' time, at a percent interest.

A well is being sunk on each tract. The land is being plowed and fenced and houses are being built. The well is being concreted down to the first water stratum and then bored deep enough to insure enough water to irrigate the 20 acres. On each tract a reservoir of 15,000 gallons is constructed, so that the water may be pumped at night, when rates for electricity are cheaper and thus store the water for the use next day.

Concrete pipes eight inches in diameter are being put in for irrigation in place of open ditches. This method is in use in California and is said to save from 30 to 60 percent in water. A standpipe six feet high is erected to give pressure through the pipes.

A five room concrete bungalow is being erected on each tract, with cement porch across the front and screened porch across the back and a basement beneath the kitchen. The houses are all being equipped with bath, lavatories, toilets, kitchen sinks and hot water heaters. A cement lined cesspool is constructed near the house. The fencing is being made of concrete posts with rabbit proof, electric welded wire.

Fort Madison, Ia., May 17.—Within 40 hours after having slashed the throat of chief of police J. B. Watkins, George Switzer today began a 30 years sentence for the crime in the penitentiary here.

Before district judge Hamilton, Switzer pleaded guilty to a charge of assault with intent to murder, and sentence was quickly imposed. Ten minutes later Switzer was taken down the street to the penitentiary to begin his term.

Chief Watkins found Switzer lying on the ground apparently intoxicated Thursday afternoon. He attempted to investigate, when the man lunged at him with a pocket knife, cutting his throat from ear to ear. The chief is said to be out of danger.

WITNESS IN "FREE LOVE COLONY" CASE IS FOUND DEAD

Davenport, Ia., May 17.—The body of a man on whose person was found a pen for one "Frank Harding" to appear before the grand jury, was found in the river here today. His head was saved in and there were many bruises about the body.

Although it was badly decomposed, friends believe the body is that of Harding. He left Davenport, Ia., where he had been working about two weeks ago to come to Davenport to testify in a "free love colony" case.

SALT LAKE MAN FOUND DEAD.

Ever Changing Feminine Fashions

Adelle Mendel.
NATURE dresses in all her glory at Springtime, but the feminine sex never changes the patterns of her trees and flowers. A red rose bush year after year will produce a red rose and a maple tree can always be relied upon for exactly the same kind of maple leaf. Womanhood is more fickle and changeable than nature. Each season seeking for new styles, in the cut of the garments, new colors, and new fabrics.

Each succeeding season makes a gown of a past season look old-fashioned, so rapidly are the new styles created. Somehow the latest style is always liked the best. We have learned that there really is nothing new under the sun, and what we believe to be new styles are really merely adoptions of old styles. But if it appeals to us as new, that is all that is necessary.

Often fashion follows the line of some period such as the Empire, the Louis XVI, etc., now the war in Balkan States is strongly influencing the designs in women's garments. Of course, we will not adopt freakish Bulgarian eccentricities, but they will be modified so as to conform with American figures and American tastes. Bulgarian colors are used greatly in trimmings and add a brilliant note to the otherwise somber colors.

American fashions for American women is the cry echoed all over, and why not? It is conceded that our tailor-made suits excel all others, and that the American tailors reign supreme. Then why should a foreign label add greater value to a costume when similar creations can be bought here at a great deal less.

Good lines are one of the great essentials of suits or gowns. No matter how costly the material and how elaborate the trimming, if the costume does not fit perfectly and show the figure off to the best advantage, it is a failure. Better to have a few good clothes that give a genuine sense of satisfaction, than many inferior ones. Similarly, the coat is often an expensive item, because it takes a more expert hand to make a really smart frock than a fancy one where the defects can be covered by trimmings.

There is not much difference in the contour of the garments. The slender long lines are still the prevailing style. The skirts are not much wider, and though fullness may be added it is done in such a way as not to puff out, or disguise the figure.

A noteworthy feature of the new suits and gowns is the striking combination of two or more colors. Some favored combinations are blue and mauve, taupe and Neil rose, emerald green and pale rose, violet and geranium rose. Yellow will be used a great deal in the spring gowns.

The leading colors for suits are blues in every shade. Dutch blue, navy blue, Persian blue, and goblin blue will have first representation. Second consideration will be given to the tans, topaz, brown, tobacco, mouse, yellow and champagne. Next will be the magenta, Neil rose, and green shades. Soft tones in gray, dark metal and silver will be popular. All white eponge and serge suits will be worn.

Skirts of large size checks, etc., will be worn with jackets of plain material matching the color of the check. The same idea will be carried out in stripes and plaids. A favorite combination is a blue and white checked skirt with a blue jacket, or a black and white striped skirt with a black or white jacket.

The materials for the suits will be mostly narrow and wide wale Bedford cord, light weight serges, a new estimate which is similar in weave to a Bengaline, novelty worsteds, eponge and some of the manish suitings. Silk suits will be much favored.

The fancy suits will have a fair amount of braids in their construction. Buckles and buttons are seen on all the suits. For a long time buttons were neglected, but now no suit is complete without buttons as a trimming. A pretty touch is given a suit by the various kinds of odd buttonholes used, some are bound in direct contrast to the color of the button.

In length the suit coats vary from 24 to 27 inches, or approximately a wrist length for the average figure. Some retain the cut-away effect of this winter; others are cut around the bottom with a decided dip in the back, while again other models are straight across the back and longer at the side seams, practically all are loose fitting with fancy collars, and no separate revers. The coats are cut in sections in the back with the raised waistline, and a slight degree of fullness is drawn in to the belt. Belts of leather or of the same material are seen on a number of suits. A dark blue silk suit has a white suede belt, which gives a stunning effect to the costume.

The latest achievements in suits and dresses show many adoptions of the Russian blouse.

IS YOUR PROPERTY INSURED?

Many of the unfortunates who had their goods stored in the building shown above had no insurance and therefore sustained a total loss. Horse Came Back.
A. H. Whitman, a Los Angeles (Cal.) jeweler, says that a cat may come back, also a horse. Whitman owned a horse for several years, and recently deciding that the animal had outlived its usefulness, he gave a young man $5 to take the equine into the country and shoot it.

He then decided that he must have a new steed, so inserted an advertisement in the newspapers. Among several answers, one especially appealed to him.

It stated that the writer possessed a gentle family horse, and gave a description which sounded good to the jeweler.

Accordingly, he journeyed to China, from which town the letter came, looked over the horse, and bought it. When he got the animal home he noticed something familiar in its actions, and upon closely examining the animal, found it to be the one he had paid to have shot.

Be Careful in Speech.

If in our speech we would need consider how our words will affect those to whom they are spoken—if we would try to hear them with their ears and consider how they accept in their hearts, there would not be much passionate or undisciplined speech; certainly there would be few spirits wounded or lives embittered by the words of our lips.—W. G. Horder.
